This can be done by clicking on the name of the CDR file. Then, choose "add CDR for new DVD project", and select the CDR from the project you have selected. With the CDR added to the project, you can place it in the appropriate location and make it the primary audio track in the DVD video, and the CDR becomes a single track that can be included in the DVD video. Easiest way to burn multiple files to one DVD: If you have many files that you want to burn to a single DVD disc, then you should use a CD/DVD burner application such as "Win DVD to Disc Maker". You can set the DVD burner to read multiple files and burn them all to the same DVD. Don't forget to write a comment on you have any question about it.

The Two-Way 4:36 pm Tue August 6, 2012 Some Amtrak Employees Seem To Think They Can Boss Amtrak's Chief Executive Around In this courtroom sketch, former Amtrak engineer Robert Smalls faces a federal grand jury in Baltimore, charged with helping a fugitive and trying to destroy evidence. AP For many years, Robert Smalls worked as a conductor on Amtrak trains. He became notorious, though, after he allegedly helped a fugitive evade arrest in 2006. He is also accused of trying to destroy evidence related to that case, and he has been charged with obstruction of justice. In this courtroom sketch, former Amtrak engineer Robert Smalls faces a federal grand jury in Baltimore, charged with helping a fugitive and trying to destroy evidence. AP Smalls was at a train station in Baltimore a few days ago. The man he's accused of helping escape from police was on a train. He was asked about this in court last month, but the judge didn't allow him to answer. New York Magazine reports that Smalls was, in the past, able to get away with putting out a fire on a train. That's probably a good thing, given that the train station was then located in the Bronx. That fire started in an engine compartment. As the train moved through the station, an engineer noticed the fire and stopped. But when the engineer called for help, another train engineer apparently neglected to alert other Amtrak employees that the train had stopped and might soon be on fire. The two engineers didn't realize they were miles away from a 1d6a3396d6
